CUSCO

CULTURAL CUSCO

4 DAYS / 3 NIGHTS

CULTURAL

OVERVIEW:

This program is a gentle, immersive journey through the cultural heart of the Cusco region, ideal for travelers who want to experience the Inca and pre-Inca legacy of the Sacred Valley without a multi-day trek. It combines a half-day tour of Cusco's iconic sites and nearby ruins, a full day exploring the Pisac Market and Ruins together with the fortress town of Ollantaytambo, a rare glimpse into rural Andean life at the Inkariy Museum and the community of Lamay, and a full day at the legendary citadel of Machu Picchu, including the option to climb Huayna Picchu.

Throughout the journey, you will walk through lively markets, ancient temples, and remote mountain communities, learning about the many cultures that shaped this land, from the pre-Columbian Caral, Chavín, Moche, Nazca, and Wari civilizations to the Inca Empire itself. This is a relaxed-paced program, with easy walks and short hikes, designed for travelers who want depth and authenticity without demanding physical exertion.

CUSCO WALKING ADVENTURE

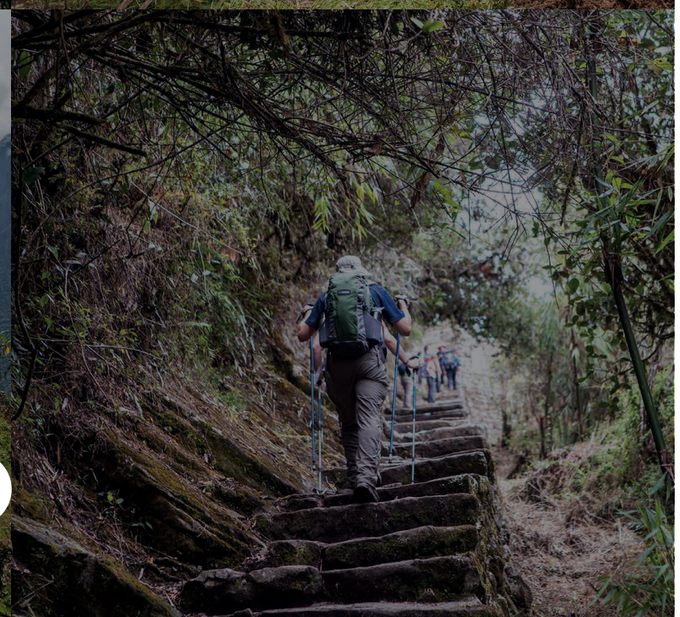

5 DAYS / 4 NIGHTS

OVERVIEW:

This program combines the cultural richness of Cusco with an immersive, community-based stay in the Sacred Valley, before finishing with the Short Inca Trail into Machu Picchu through Inti Punku, the Gate of the Sun. It begins with a half-day tour of Cusco's iconic sites and nearby ruins, followed by two days living alongside the Andean community of Lamay: participating in a traditional Faena Agrícola, sharing a community-prepared meal, and exploring the surrounding Sacred Valley lakes on foot in the company of llamas.

The journey then continues along the final stretch of the classic Inca Trail, a taste of the famous longer trek, passing through the ruins of Chachabamba and Wiñay Wayna before descending into the magnificent citadel of Machu Picchu. This is a program for travelers who want authentic cultural connection paired with a rewarding, moderately challenging hike.

INCA TRAIL TO MACHU PICCHU

8 DAYS / 7 NIGHTS

OVERVIEW:

The 5-day journey begins at Km 82, the marker that signifies the start of the famous Inca Trail. Our highly trained guides, who are deeply familiar with these ancient Inca footpaths, will expertly lead us through the magnificent Andean terrain. Along the way, we'll traverse breathtaking high alpine passes, lush valleys, dense cloud forests, and rushing rivers. We'll pass through ancient Inca remains of Andean settlements, ultimately arriving at Machu Picchu via Inti Punku (the Sun Gate). Each night, our team of porters and skilled cooks will have a delicious hot meal and a comfortable camp already set up for your convenience. Since we highly value sustainable tourism, we'll have very little impact on the land, communities, and environment we encounter along the trail, and we will also take steps to enjoy a tranquil hike, avoiding crowds of fellow trekkers. On the final day, a guided tour of the citadel will bring Machu Picchu to life, as we explore and immerse ourselves in the magic and beauty of this ancient, mystical site. This trek is truly an unforgettable experience you'll reminisce about for years to come.

HIDDEN VALLEYS OF SALKANTAY TREK TO MACHU PICCHU

8 DAYS / 7 NIGHTS

TREKKING CULTURAL

OVERVIEW:

oStarting from a little-known valley near Limatambo, we ascend gradually over two days past ancient forests and varied Andean landscapes toward the Cruzjasa Pass at 4,550 meters / 14,927 feet above sea level. Here we will experience the best views of the south and east faces of Mount Salkantay, away from the crowds. We descend along a gradual decline toward Mirador Pampaccahuana, accompanied by views of Mount Salkantay and its moraine until we reach Cusichaca Valley, which marks the eastern boundary of the Machu Picchu Historical Sanctuary. As we approach the Sacred Valley, we will begin to see trekkers embarking on the first stretch of the famous Inca Trail as we continue our hike downhill toward our private campsite at Chamana. Before finally reaching the valley floor, we will take a detour to explore Wayna Q'ente and Machu Q'ente, two majestic Inca sites recently restored by the Ministry of Culture, which showcase some of the finest Inca terracing and landscaping in the region. Our hike ends at the valley floor where we will be picked up and transported to Ollantaytambo in time to catch the afternoon train to Machu Picchu.

ANCASCOCHA TREK & SHORT INCA TRAIL

5 DAYS / 4 NIGHTS

TREKKING CULTURAL

OVERVIEW:

National Geographic Magazine has rated this Inca Trail alternative trek as one of the top hikes in the world! This is truly the road less traveled by, for those who crave time away from crowds, amidst the beauty of nature. The journey begins at the Parpishu Footbridge and ascends amidst the dramatic backdrop of Mts. Salkantay and Verónica. Crossing through rugged terrain, remote mountain communities, ancient ruins, and diverse ecosystems for around 37 km (23 mi), the trek culminates at the village of Camicancha, near Km 77 on the railroad tracks to Machu Picchu. On day 4, we will board the train to Km 104 to walk along the pathway that covers the final stretch of the Inca Trail, where you will have a taste of the famous longer Inca Trail hike, and the thrill of entering Machu Picchu through Inti Punku, the Gate of the Sun. On our last day, we will spend time exploring Machu Picchu, one of the ancient wonders of the world.

AUSANGATE TREK: CORDILLERA VILCANOTA

5 DAYS / 4 NIGHTS

TREKKING CULTURAL

OVERVIEW:

Revered as one of the most sacred mountains of the Vilcanota Mountain Range, Apu Ausangate is the 5th-highest snow-capped peak in Peru. An Apu, or Mountain Deity, is the spiritual entity of the mountain, believed to watch over the communities of people and animals living in its vicinity. You will traverse remote and vibrant country that is home to one of the few remaining pastoralist societies in the world: high mountain herds-people living at these heights trade their meat and fiber with the lower-lying communities that produce agricultural products, using some of the very same trails we'll be hiking. On the journey, you'll see domestic camelids grazing in the fields, including llamas and alpacas, and if we are lucky, we'll get a glimpse of their predecessors, fleet, golden vicuñas that produce the most expensive fleece in the world! Also, on this journey, meet some of the entrancing and hardy people that live in these remote environs. Bird enthusiasts will enjoy sightings of raptors, including eagles, hawks, and condors soaring the thermals far above.enthusiasts will enjoy sightings of raptors, including eagles, hawks, and condors soaring the thermals far above.

THE HUAYHUASH CIRCUIT

TREKKING CULTURAL

OVERVIEW:

This program begins with two full-day acclimatization outings around Huaraz, a hike to Lake Wilcacocha and a visit to the archaeological site of Chavín de Huántar, before setting off on an amazing journey to the very heart of the Cordillera Huayhuash, the second highest tropical mountain range in the world. A trekker's paradise, this terrain is remote, wild, and stunningly beautiful. The film Touching the Void, the tale of climbers Joe Simpson and Simon Yates, was made about their harrowing experience as the first mountaineers to scale Siula Grande, which is part of this mountain range.

This version of the trek crosses six high passes over 4,500 m (14,763 ft) and two that are higher than 5,000 m (16,404 ft)! Throughout the 12 days of the trek, we camp next to stunningly beautiful alpine lakes and in broad, grassy valleys replete with wildflowers and rushing alpine creeks, while basking in the imposing presence of the White Mountains looming over us, with peaks at elevations above 5,000 m (16,404 ft) and 6,000 m (19,685 ft).

At least two days of acclimatization hikes in the area, such as our first two days in Huaraz, are strongly recommended to be able to enjoy the trek to the fullest.

BEST OF HUAYHUASH

8 DAYS / 7 NIGHTS

OVERVIEW:

This shorter 6-day version of the Best of Huayhuash trek showcases some of the most iconic scenery of the Cordillera Huayhuash, Peru's most spectacular mountain range, without requiring the full classic circuit. From the turquoise waters of Jahuacocha, Mitucocha, and Carhuacocha to the dramatic panorama from the famous Tres Lagunas Viewpoint, home to the celebrated "Seven Fangs of Huayhuash," this trek delivers world-class Andean scenery at every turn.

Along the way, we pass beneath towering peaks including Yerupajá (6,634m), Peru's second-highest mountain, as well as Jirishanca, Siula Grande, and Rondoy, crossing high mountain passes with the chance to spot Andean condors soaring overhead. It's a rewarding, moderately strenuous adventure for trekkers with limited time who still want to experience the very best of this legendary range.

CUSCO SACRED RUNS

6 DAYS / 5 NIGHTS

TREKKING CULTURAL

OVERVIEW:

Starting in the Amazon basin we explore the lowland rainforest through trails, meandering rivers and oxbow lakes, with many chances to see the unique fauna and flora of this environment. We will visit the world famous Chuncho clay lick where we will be able to spot several different types of macaws together in one place in a unique natural spectacle. On the third day we ride a vehicle on the Interoceanic Highway first along flat terrain to finally reach the foothills of the Andes. We follow the valley winding our way up towards the cloud forest, overnighting at 800 meters above sea level (2,625 fasl). From here we continue our ascent over the Pirhuayani Pass (4,750 masl / 15,580 fasl) with its vast expanses and snow-capped peaks lining the horizon past highland pampas of puna littered with Andean communities along the way. We enter and traverse the Andes passing towns and villages until we reach the Sacred Valley with a chance to visit important archeological sites, climaxing with a tour of the citadel of Machu Picchu. The adventure ends in Cusco before departing to your ongoing destination.
